

PUPPY CARE DAILY SCHEDULE

This is a typical daily puppy schedule. It is only a tool and can be modified to accommodate your family and lifestyle. Your puppy should not be left more than 4 hours in their crate as a puppy during the day.

First Thing Breakfast Time

Take the puppy outside to relieve himself as soon as he wakes up. If you have time, it's also a good time to play and interact with him.

Wash his water bowl and give him clean water when you feed him.

After Breakfast Mid Morning

Although everyone is busy in the morning getting ready for work and school, a quick walk after breakfast gives him a chance to do his business one more time.

The rest of the morning is devoted to nap time. If you are home during the day, your puppy may want to hang out with you while you are working or doing chores. He also needs to go out a least one more time before lunch. If everyone leaves the house for the day, consider having a pet sitter come in and walk him.

Lunch Mid Afternoon

Naturally a trip outside should follow a meal.

It's probably nap time again and he will need to go outside once he wakes up.

Dinner Early Evening

If you arrange his mealtime around yours, it will become natural to feed him either while you are preparing dinner or while the household is eating.

Potty break of course. The early evening is a good time for play and lots of interaction. You also want him to burn off some puppy energy before bedtime.

Bedtime ALAA Pet PALs!

A set bedtime makes his adjustment and house training easier for everyone; weather it's 8pm or midnight, it doesn't matter as long as it becomes a routine. Make sure you take him outside for a nice long potty time before taking him to his crate for the night.
